Race of Beauty

When Dr. Pierce founded the Cosmotheist Community Church in 1977 he was planning for the long-term interests of our race, knowing that religions, though sometimes slow in their beginnings, last for centuries — while political movements are relatively short-lived. It took 300 years before Christianity took hold, but it held powerful sway over our civilization for over a millennium. Denominations of that creed, all of whom worship the Jew's tribal god and his imaginary son, have had hundreds of years to build their rites — traditions for births, baptisms, for reaching adulthood, and for other passages through their flocks' lives, such as marriages, funerals, and so forth. Who, raised in a traditional church, hasn't had to memorize and recite the Apostles' Creed or the Nicene Creed or some other affirmation?

> I believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth, and in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord, who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary, suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified . . . etc., etc.

That's a strange and inappropriate affirmation in these darkening times for any racially-conscious Aryan who is neither gullible nor superstitious; for a realist who looks to Nature, Nature's laws, science, reason, common sense, and to lessons from our people's history in formulating his view of reality and of life. He has as his primary concern the future existence of our unique kind, which the Christian creeds either ignore or oppose.

For centuries, Christian churches were the glue that held communities together in the West (the operative word being were). Churches will play that role again in our new White world, but the Jewish Bible will not be involved. Church traditions, ceremonies, and services will be centered on serving the Creator through race preservation, renewal, and advancement. We have no need whatever for any Semitic belief system, especially not for the worship of the Jew's vengeful tribal god.

Dr. Pierce realized Cosmotheism would need its own traditions, and in the 1970s instituted our affirmation, which is recited daily by many of us and which is spoken at the start of Cosmotheist gatherings:

> There is but one reality.
> That reality is the Whole.
> It is the Creator, the self-created.
> I am of the Whole.
> I am of the Creator, of the self-created.
> My purpose is the Creator's purpose.
> My path is the path of the Creator's self-realization.
> My path is the path of divine consciousness.
> My destiny is godhood.

Music is also an integral part of any living religion. Some music composed in a Christian context is quite beautiful, composed by Whites and with a White spiritual essence, despite the sometimes-unfortunate lyrics and the Semitic falsehoods they facilitate. That music created by European souls, however, is ours forever, and we are free to write new and more enlightened lyrics for it.

And that's exactly what Dr. Pierce did in 1983 when he tried his hand as a lyricist by mating his words, which you'll see on the music sheet on this page, with Thomas Hastings' 1830 melody Rock of Ages. Members and proto-Units with a musician available to help can use this sheet for fellowship and song at your meetings. If you'd like a larger and easier-to-read copy of the sheet music, it can be downloaded at:

cosmotheistchurch.org/race-of-beauty-sheet/

We have the talent in our ranks to produce a video of "Race of Beauty" with a karaoke-like bouncing ball that follows each syllable of the lyrics, which would help Alliance groups without an instrumentalist sing this inspiring piece. Do we have a volunteer to help with this video/audio project? In the meantime, we do have a very nice audio-only instrumental version as a downloadable mp3 file, which members can sing along to, available at this url:

Every member will also want to watch the 1987 video production of this song, which can be found at:

Lawsuits Against the SPLC

We have reported in previous issues of the BULLETIN that the Southern Poverty Law Center has been sued recently for its overreach in labeling individuals and groups as "haters" and attempting to ruin them personally and finanicially. An anti-jihadi Muslim that the SPLC called an "extremist" settled for $3.3 million and an apology from the Jewish group. Encouraged by that settlement, other groups have come forward and filed their own suits. The latest, this month, has been filed by the Center For Immigration Studies (CIS) under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations (RICO) Act. The CIS is the first to cite RICO in challenging the so-called law center. They claim that the SPLC commits wire fraud over the Internet when it designates the CIS as a "hate group" with the intention to cause financial harm. Sound familiar? The CIS backs up its claim by citing actual damages that have resulted from the corrupt SPLC's racketeering. Good wishes are extended from the National Alliance to the CIS, to James Kennedy Ministries, and to every group who seeks justice by suing the SPLC. It is a good time to pile on offensively!

Another lawsuit has been filed against the SPLC that involves the National Alliance to some extent. Glen Allen, an attorney and former friend of William Pierce who had a special interest in Cosmotheism, was fired from his job as a result of the SPLC's dirty work against our Alliance. Learn details about his lawsuit, including a full PDFcopy of Mr. Allen's masterful complaint, here:

nationalvanguard.org/2019/01/a-very-worthy-cause-support-glen-allens-lawsuit-against-the-splc/

It is likely that if the SPLC doesn't settle with Mr. Allen to avoid a trial, Chairman Williams will be deposed for testimony about his and the Alliance's role as fellow victims. See Paragraph 125 of the complaint to see how stolen documents were sold to the SPLC, which then used those stolen documents to get Mr.Allen terminated from his job and to destroy his career — actual damages for which SPLC racketeers and their collaborators should pay and pay heavily! Mr. Allen is not citing the RICO Act, but rather is asking the courts to revoke the SPLC's prized 501c3 tax-exempt status for flagrantly violating several of the requirements it must meet.

Book News

We still have not found a credit card processing service willing to serve our online Cosmotheist Book Store, but people are catching on that they can bypass the credit card problem by ordering either via mail or via cryptocurrency online.

Meanwhile, we added another eight titles this month: The Blond Knight of Germany by Toliver and Constable; Bullfinch's Mythology in both softcover and hardback; German Law and Legislation by Erich Schennerer; German Political Profiles by Hans Heinz Sadila-Mantan; Hadrian's Wall in the Days of the Roman Empire by Embleton; Garet Garrett's Burden of Empire; Rune Lore by Thorolf Wardle, and Garbage Man, an expose of the ADL's long-time garbage-picker, Roy Bullock.

We have wanted to reprint some of our old National Vanguard Books titles but haven't accumulated sufficient funds yet. Last year we printed a run of our bestseller The Turner Diaries, and hope to come out with a new improved third edition of that book later this year. Our stock of William Gayley Simpson's Which Way Western Man? is getting low, and we do not want to run out of this significant work, so it will probably be next on our schedule for reprinting. Cosmotheist Books is the only source for this important book. Contributions to help these efforts are always needed and welcome!

Correspondence

Dear Will, Wow! So much going on. Thanks for the article links. Who is this guy O'Neil? I had never seen that PJ Media site before. I downloaded the link to Glen's claim and look forward to reading it. The SPLC is simply out of control. I hope he crushes them. Any update on the McLaughlin estate case? It would be simply amazing if we won.

I glanced through DeCourcy's blog. I don't even know where to start. That may be some of the craziest stuff I have ever read. I picked this one sentence at random: "In 2013 Williams got permission from his wife to start a money making 'racialist' organization with the promise that they could make ALOT [sic] of money and they could live off of it." Umm...if you had planned on making "a lot of money" off of the Alliance, I think you would have given up and quit a long time ago. And the stuff about you and Lana... amazing. Anyone who has spent five minutes with you and your wife would know DeCourcy's claims are just simple insanity.

The BS you deal with for the cause would reduce the average man to a sniveling mess, but you come out swinging every time. Best regards, — B.B. Esq., Texas

Chairman Williams responds: Yes, B.B., lots of legal issues to deal with. Coup-plotter McLaughlin is being handled by our corporate attorneys.

Mr. O'Neil, a Christian conservative who writes for PJ Media and takes a dim view of the SPLC, interviewed Glen Allen, then me, and wrote a couple of articles, even linking to nationalvanguard.org. One of those articles appeared on the popular Drudge Report and so was seen by millions.

As for the insanity of the state of West Virginia's claiming "witness" against me, I'll be telling it to the judge. At some point, she (the judge, that is) will be forced to admit that insanity.

To the National Alliance: I'm a young man of 21, and I've only been a member of the Alliance for four months now. Never once have I feared losing by job or being ostracized for my faith in the Alliance, I've carried my membership card with me proudly and will continue to do so. My fear and my concern is about the ever-growing brown horde of invaders who hate us and would gladly murder any of us given the chance, and the parasitic Jewish upper-class that thrives off of the misplaced respect that the Christians have for them. For a whole youth generation of boys and girls that are blinded by the lying media into a systematic suicide! The reward for joining should be the knowledge that you're a part of an organization that cares about the survival of Whites. The next step is to look towards how you can improve your community, the place where you live, using the accumulated works you can find here at nationalvanguard.org. — S.E., New Hampshire

Dear Chairman, I sent a cash contribution to Mr. Glen Allen, Esq. at the provided address, to lend assistance with the SPLC lawsuit. In turn he sent me a very nice, handwritten thank you note, with sentiments of friendship and determination.

This is an important data point, showing that resources used to help Mr. Allen against the SPLC are a good investment. And it was fast! I got his letter two days after I sent the contribution.

Mr. Allen is a brave soul! Baltimore County in the People's Republic of Maryland is a most inhospitable region for a patriot, especially one who would confront the Granddaddy of all the Other Side's intimidation organizations. This courageous man rates an enthusiastic response from all patriots we know. Thanks much, — W.P., Pennsylvania

Dear Will: Last night I read the NV article about your work on the Pierce Library. I had no idea you were doing so much real-world stuff. I feel a slight stirring of hope, reading about it. I also had no idea that you were sending out bulletins. Can your bulletins be read online? Is the address shown on the donation page your personal address, or an office or P.O. Box address? Your picture with Hans Schmidt's wife shows you to be very well. I'm glad. Congratulations on the work you're doing. — M.O. (an old friend, reconnecting in an email)

One Sucessful Effort Ends . . .

Donations to the Jim Mathias Defense Fund (JMDF) in the six months beginning last August, gifted just by the Alliance members and supporters who receive this monthly BULLETIN, have now added up to $4,350, thanks in large part to the generous $1,000 gift from one of you this month, $500 from another, $100 from two others, plus $105 combined from several others — you know who you are.

We have now achieved 86.5% of the $5,000 goal set.

Not bad! Very good, actually, from our relatively small group. Mr. Mathias extended his thanks in this note he mailed to the National Office after being informed of January donations to his defense fund:

Chairman Williams, thank you and the members for helping me with legal costs.

Financially, things were rough for the first six months of 2018 and those donations helped me get in front of my fines and other costs. This month's donations get me very close to settling those debts and it means a lot to me. I'd never imagined other members would step up to this level when you first initiated the JMDF. I am so grateful and encouraged by the support. My feeling after my arrest and trial was that I would be bearing nearly all of the burden, but would still keep up my Alliance/Cosmotheist activity. In that vein, among my other activity this month, hundreds of our fliers have been distributed, usually in small batches per day. 500 "No King Over Us" fliers were printed, tri-folded, and distributed in the Quad Cities area on MLK Day.

Doing something every day is what I aim to do, to remain in the habit of contributing to our overall outreach efforts. This helps to affirm that I'm a part of something greater than just living life for only myself. With my best regards, — Jim Mathias, Iowa

Jim, in another of his update letters earlier this month, adds:

Chairman Williams: It's hard to believe, but OurQuadCities.com named its top ten news stories of 2018, and "Man distributing white supremacist fliers in QC identified, arrested" made the list along with news of a body found in the river, another body found at a truck stop, a kidnapping, and an arrest for human trafficking of a 16-year-old girl. The headline for my arrest and conviction should have read: "Corrupt Law Enforcement, the Courts, the Media, and the SPLC Fail to Stop Distribution of National Alliance Fliers"!

The attorney representing the state of Iowa in my appeal case asked for and was granted a second extension of time to submit the brief giving the state's position regarding the law under which I was charged and convicted.

Again, it has to do with the definition of "school" and their claim that the grounds of a stadium affiliated with no specific school and located no closer than 1000 feet to the nearest school are somehow the "grounds" of a school. I look forward to seeing how their lawyer twists the language to make the outcome fit their conviction of me. Following the state's brief should be a review of the case and briefs by a panel of appellate judges who then give a decision. How long this takes is not known, but I'll keep you updated.

This further delay in your own criminal case suggests to me your last minute takeover of your own defense, in court, back in October had the impact of making the judge and prosecutor believe they need more time to figure how to save their own skins. Their "star witness" botched things up royally for State of West Virginia v. Will Williams with that 13-page rant [her "Victim Impact Statement"], and your own attorney failed to keep you under the court's thumb. As you told me several months ago, "they've got you where you want them." Your example of fighting to the very end may well have won this fight — and shows the world you fight to win. We all should. With my best regards, — Jim Mathias, Iowa

Chairman Williams responds: Jim, your fight inspires my fight and our Alliance's fight to the end on those civil lawsuits against our organization. It helped that we had right on our side in every case to begin with, then simply asked ourselves WWWLPD? — and the answer for a wise decision would come. What would a Cosmotheist do? He'd do what's right, what's necessary. It's an Aryan thing. You have good arguments on appeal and the state's case stinks, but that doesn't necessarily lead to justice for you. I told Dr. Pierce at his dinner table once, soon after we'd met, that I thought Whites would eventually prevail because our cause is so right. "No Will, goddammit," slamming his big fist on the dinner table. In his booming voice he finished, "It's not enough to be right. We have to fight like hell!" I nearly choked on whatever I was eating, but have never forgotten that point he made so clear to me. Jim, you have what Dr. Pierce called "that enduring quality that refuses to give up under intense pressure."

. . . and Another Begins

I've noticed over the years that some organizations have an Annual Building Fund, or a Spring Building Fund. Now that the JMDF drive has ended, a new, long-term National Alliance building fund is being launched in February. This building fund is for an actual building: the William Luther Pierce Memorial Library facility that will be constructed on the Alliance's new property in upper east Tennessee. General donations for Alliance-building, beyond regular monthly pledges, are encouraged as usual, but any donations earmarked for the William Luther Pierce Library Building Fund (or just PLBF for short) will go into a separate account dedicated to financing the pay-as-we-go planning, construction, and outfitting of what we hope will be an important and modern new facility for our people. Kevin Strom interviewed me this month on American Dissident Voices and our discussion on the library project can be heard here:

Commentary by Chairman William White Williams

Protecting the Intellectual Legacy of William Luther Pierce — on Two Fronts

In my commentary this month, I'll tell you more about our plans for moving forward — at a sustainable pace — with our planned new facility, and also about an interesting encounter I had with an anti-Alliance academic who wanted to use Dr. Pierce's words in one of his own works.

Unavoidable Taxes and Avoidable Debt

I recently learned from our West Virginia CPA that the $5,300 West Virginia non-resident tax (2.5% of the selling price) that was deducted at closing of the sale of our relinquished property in Mill Point, for which we expected reimbursement for all or part, will not be reimbursed to the Alliance. Not only that, but because of what Jim Mathias might call the "twisted language" of the West Virginia Tax Code, we may actually owe the state as much as $2,400 in addition to the $5,300 that was deducted from proceeds at closing back in September. Our CPA advises us that we may have offsets from expenses like substantial property taxes paid, and losses from previous years, that can be carried forward on this year's return. In any event, these several thousand dollars — that the National Alliance was expecting to put directly into improving our Tennessee replacement property — will not be available after all.

As a result we will scale back our initial plans for the William Luther Pierce Library facility accordingly — and pay for improvements and expansions as we can and as we go, always being careful not to overextend ourselves financially. This means scaling back the building's size when newly constructed, for starters — not as ambitious as first planned, but still substantial. We will be proceeding carefully and deliberately — just as we do with Alliance-building: quality before quantity. We can always expand the building later, when donations, sales revenue, and dues make it possible.

Andrew Macdonald's Ideals and Ideology

It is not unusual for the National Office to receive correspondence from time to time from someone asking permission to use copyrighted material owned by the National Alliance. In mid-January we received such a request from a large New York City publishing firm, the Routledge, Taylor & Francis Group, wanting permission to quote text from The Turner Diaries in a book they were publishing.

I replied to the request after researching the title of their book, and wrote back to the inquirer, Susannah, with some questions which included asking her how much text they wanted to use. The book in question is the upcoming 11th edition of the popular textbook Ideals and Ideologies: A Reader, widely used in university courses in Political Science. I asked her in what context the text from The Turner Diaries would be used. I told her that The Turner Diaries is a novel, fiction written in 1975, that it is not an exposition of an ideology. So Suzannah bumped me up to her boss, the author's editor, Ms. Mortensen, to answer my questions.

Ms. Mortensen and I then went back and forth; she provided the text from The Turner Diaries that they wanted to use (the final chapter and the Epilogue) and their paragraph introducing the text in the "Fascism" section of the textbook, assuring me that there was no Political Correctness in Emeritus Professor Terence Ball's acclaimed work. I had told her that every approved poli-sci textbook that ever mentioned anything about The Turner Diaries or its author has been Politically Correct. I did further research and learned from the Amazon.com reviews of Ideals that everything I had suspected was true.

Finally I was turned over to the chief author himself, and I wrote: "Professor Ball, as Chairman of the National Alliance I appreciate your asking permission to use a large amount of text from our copyrighted material in your popular textbook. As I told Miss Mortensen, the blurb you intend to use about Dr. William Pierce is misleading. She disagrees. His novel, The Turner Diaries, was first written by him in 1975, serialized in monthly installments in his monthly tabloid newspaper. Later, in 1978, it was published in book form. This adventure novel can't be accurately described as representative of either Dr. Pierce's ideology or of his ideals. Dr. Pierce left the copyrights of all of his writings to the National Alliance. Cosmotheist Books sells The Turner Diaries and the other 'Andrew Macdonald' novel, Hunter. You want to associate Dr. Pierce with "neo-Nazism" three times in the first two sentences you wrote about him, based on a fictional story he wrote 44 years ago. He first founded Cosmotheism in 1976, not long after he wrote The Turner Diaries."

The Professor Emeritus, with his 60 years of experience in Political Science, ignored my objection to his misrepresentation of Dr. Pierce's ideology and makes it clear he has no interest in Cosmotheism, which is Dr. Pierce's actual ideology.

> "Without honor one cannot expect truth to prevail."
> William Luther Pierce

I received this response from the clearly frustrated Professor Emeritus Terence Ball, PhD: "All we are asking by way of an answer is a simple yes or no: Will your organization grant us permission to reprint, or not? If yes, we will pay you for permission to reprint. If no, we will find a substitute reading."

I responded, "Publish the amount of text from The Turner Diaries that Miss Mortensen sent to me, yes, at $1 per word. 3,681 words x $1.00 = $3,681. If you do not agree with my 'yes' terms, do not publish one word of The Turner Diaries; I'll thank you for your interest and wish you good luck in finding a backup 'neo-Nazi/Fascist' novelist."

Ball's response: "Thank you for your prompt reply. The price you cite is, I believe, roughly 10 times what we've paid before, and is therefore unacceptable. We will find a less expensive substitute."

One would think that would have ended the affair. But no. Our researcher has been trying to get us a copy of the 10th or earlier editions of Dr. Ball's Ideals, and did get copies of the nine pages, listed in the online table of contents, that are dedicated to The Turner Diaries from an earlier edition of this textbook. This edition, and possibly earlier ones, contains the same two opening sentences about Andrew Macdonald's 1975 "neo-Nazi" book being an exposition of "neo-Nazi leader" William Pierce's "fascist ideology" — beginning on page 408. And it appears that the professor has reprinted and sold our copyrighted material in previous editions of Ideals without authorization. The damages could be significant. We've established a reasonable price for what the publisher of the 11th edition of Ideals must pay to use our material. We certainly deserve compensation for the previous editions that used our material to mislead impressionable young minds interested in political science against Dr. Pierce's non-fiction, ideological teachings.

When dealing with the intellectually dishonest Professor Emeritus Terence Ball, I recalled what Dr. Pierce, a professor himself before leaving the academy and dedicating his life to our people, wrote in his 1992 National Vanguard magazine article "The Destruction of the Academy": "One cannot put a sense of honor back into academics who compromised theirs away. And without honor one cannot expect truth to prevail." W. W. W.
